

VI. Preparing for an LIDT Career

Two of the most common questions students have when they enter an LIDT graduate program is what kinds of careers will be available to them after graduation, and how can they prepare for those careers? This section focuses on answering those questions. There are many more careers possible with an LIDT degree than those represented here, and additional chapters may be added in the future. The next question is for you to answer: What type of career do you want to have?

LIDT Careers

For further information about career paths in the LIDT field, including videos about different job sectors within the field, focused on BYU IPT alumni, please visit the EdTech Careers Job Sectors page.

The image shows a screenshot of the EdTech Careers website. At the top, there is a navigation bar with a hamburger menu icon on the left and the text "EdTech Careers" in the center. Below the navigation bar is a large teal banner with the text "EdTech Careers" in white, followed by "Explore the Instructional Design and Technology (IDT) field and find your dream job!". Below the banner is a section titled "About EdTech Careers" in teal. To the left of this text is an illustration of a person with a beard sitting at a desk with a laptop, a small potted plant, and a mug. The text "EdTech Careers is a free online careers resource for anyone interested in the Instructional Design and Technology (IDT) field." is displayed to the right of the illustration.

EdTech Careers

Explore the Instructional Design and Technology (IDT) field and find your dream job!

About EdTech Careers

EdTech Careers is a free online careers resource for anyone interested in the Instructional Design and Technology (IDT) field.

What Are the Skills of an Instructional Designer?
Careers in Academia: The Secret Handshake
Careers in K-12 Education
Careers in Museum Learning
Careers in Consulting

This content is provided to you freely by EdTech Books.

Access it online or download it at https://edtechbooks.org/lidtfoundations/lidt_career.